Dear Mr. Kitty:

Thank you so much for coming to the Wayne Public Library on September 23, 2009 to perform your program entitled: "Mark Twain's Last Stand". Your impersonation of Mark Twain was perfect, just as I imagined Mark Twain would be like.

Your lecture, "Mark Twain's Last Stand" is fascinating and very creative. It is an interesting mix of the old Samuel Clemons's Mark Twain and the new Alan Kitty's Mark Twain espousing on today's issues which, of course, are not so different from the old issues.

People followed along and really enjoyed your commentary and impersonation. Many people approached me after the program to tell me that it was excellent. I apologize for the disruption near the back of the room. They were residents from one of the senior care centers and they became a little confused because the program was extra long for them. Additionally, I do not know if they heard you well enough to follow along. You were loud enough for everyone in the back of the room to hear you, but maybe they had some additional hearing loss.

Thank you for coming to the Wayne Public Library, your impersonation of Mark Twain is excellent and your program is very interesting.

Sincerely,

Deborah Rosenblatt
